

Mr. Ankur Chaudhary

Policy Specialist (APAC), Good Food Institute, Singapore

Ankur works closely with national and sub-national governments, and civil society to catalyze a movement to create a more secure, sustainable, and just food system. Prior to GFI, Ankur was a Program Editor at The Economist, working with partners to enable research, drive programs, and support the formulation and execution of Fortune 500 clients' business strategies. He also co-founded an e-counseling platform—Medimonk—that was acquired in 2016. He has a master's degree in public policy from the National University of Singapore.
