

Prof. Doris Marko

University of Vienna, Austria

Doris Marko is Professor of Food Chemistry at the University of Vienna (Austria) and head of the Department of Food Chemistry and Toxicology. With a respective dual educative background, she synergistically combines state-of-the-art analytics with toxicological/mechanistical approaches, to address pressing questions of consumer safety. Actual fields of research include hazard characterization of emerging contaminants, the complex interaction of contaminants with potentially co-occurring bioactive food constituents or pharmaceutical drugs as well as novel strategies for risk assessment of chemical mixtures.